Spain is a country that has a high prevalence of hepatitis C infection. This is a simple diagnostic test to detect antibodies against the virus, and the quantification of viral RNA, besides being cheaper and more accessible, is an indicator of the viral replication. The results of several epidemiological studies show prevalence around 1-2% in adults, and a marked increase of prevalence in patients with certain risk factors. The high prevalence of infection shows the existence of large groups of subjects infected, with potential morbidity and mortality. The knowledge of the initial phases of infection and the best time to detect anti-HCV antibodies and viral RNA increase the effectiveness of diagnosing and preventing the complications of the disease.Q: How to submit a form to a servlet on jsp page and then update the content of the jsp page? I am trying to submit a form containing a textfield and a submit button to a servlet page. The servlet should process it and return the output to the jsp. Basically, I want to update jsp content after clicking on submit button in the form. index.jsp

Her tail ended in a point that matched the tip of the blade. Its eyes rolled and its mouth snapped shut. Blade slid through its soft underbelly, dead centre. Blood gushed as the body convulsed and slid off the blade. It hit the ground with an impact that shook the house. The dog that had consumed the heart of the cat jumped in the air as if it had lost its footing. "He killed them all." I looked over at the woman standing in the doorway. She was average height, well clothed but obviously younger than I was. Her breasts and hips were narrow and her torso was topped off with matted hair that was half brown and half black. Her tail covered her bare feet. I looked at the crude weapons in her hands. A crude blade and a crude stone club. A story was written in her eyes that told me why she had died. She was a displaced resident of Thisuvitseya. Her home was being destroyed, her family destroyed, and she had been killed. She had been forced to flee her home because of the politics, the violence and the isolation. She looked like an individual that had been harassed and threatened for years. Her fear was etched
