I'm trying to resize a specific ImageView to match the size of a Button. The only thing I can find is the width and height properties. I want to scale the size of the image to fit the space of the button. A: Use the scale method (sans parameter). If you don't know the dimensions of the button, then you can specify the width and height of the entire view, and the scale will handle the rest:
`myButton.setImageView(myImageView) myButton.setScale(0.5f)`

Because both the button and imageView have set their width/height to MATCH_PARENT, the scale will scale both to be the same. ... have ideas about shooting, you can just express them to us.
